

In Heaven's Name,

Why on Earth?

Harry Wendt

Our understanding of stewardship changes radically when we realize that “Christian giving” is an impossibility. After all, we cannot give what is not ours. God the Creator remains the Owner of Heaven and Earth.

This liberating study helps us to understand—and live out—that we are called to be responsible managers of the Master’s Vineyard.

“This course renews our hearts and frees us from a law-oriented, guilt-driven idea of Christian stewardship.”

—Class participant

CROSSWAYS
INTERNATIONAL
www.crossways.org

In Heaven's Name,

Why on Earth?

Harry Wendt

Our understanding of stewardship changes radically when we realize that “Christian giving” is an impossibility. After all, we cannot give what is not ours. God the Creator remains the Owner of Heaven and Earth.

This liberating study helps us to understand—and live out—that we are called to be responsible managers of the Master’s Vineyard.

“This course renews our hearts and frees us from a law-oriented, guilt-driven idea of Christian stewardship.”

—Class participant

CROSSWAYS
INTERNATIONAL
www.crossways.org

In Heaven's Name,

Why on Earth?

Harry Wendt

Our understanding of stewardship changes radically when we realize that “Christian giving” is an impossibility. After all, we cannot give what is not ours. God the Creator remains the Owner of Heaven and Earth.

This liberating study helps us to understand—and live out—that we are called to be responsible managers of the Master’s Vineyard.

“This course renews our hearts and frees us from a law-oriented, guilt-driven idea of Christian stewardship.”

—Class participant

CROSSWAYS
INTERNATIONAL
www.crossways.org