

“In Heaven’s Name, Why on Earth?”

...helps people rethink the concept of management versus ownership of what God entrusts to us.

Stewardship and Life Management endorsements:

“This course is attention-getting! It is very biblically sound, teachable, and transferable—for use in a classroom setting, small group study, worship, or adult education. Its Christian stewardship emphasis challenges us to consider how we manage our lives and resources biblically.”

- Rev. Richard A. Johnson
All Saints Lutheran Church
Fitchburg, WI

- “IHN is life changing: It reorients one’s outlook on life and what God is lending us and has done for us.
- “IHN is biblically-based – true to Scripture: It is bold and courageous material!
- “IHN is engaging: People start discussing and considering how their lives, lifestyles, and perspectives can be positively changed when they begin to better understand what the Bible really says about stewardship and discipleship.
- “IHN is challenging: It encourages one to a greater degree of commitment and discipleship. It is bold and courageous stewardship material!”

- Rev. Jeffrey Wilhelm
Mount Calvary Lutheran Church
Greenville, MI

“Biblical focus – no tithes! We used this for our stewardship campaign; and not only did we catch up with our challenge (budget) but we have remained ahead. When we recognize that everything belongs to God, the Holy Spirit becomes the great motivator in our giving hearts.”

- Pastor Mark Shockey
St. Peter Lutheran Church
Edina, MN
